FOREWORD BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL COURT, ARTA RAMA HAJRIZI

The Constitutional Court, as the ultimate authority for the interpretation of the Constitution and for the protection of fundamental human rights and freedoms in the Republic of Kosovo, closed 2019 with dense activities and with a larger number of cases reviewed than the previous year.

All activities carried out and decisions rendered in 2019 are presented in this annual working report of the Court, which, inter alia, contains statistical data on the number of the referrals filed, the structure of decisions, the ethnicity of the Applicants, the percentage of cases resolved and carried over, as well as the nature of the violations alleged by the parties.

Budget expenditures and financial statements, study and official visits, gender structure and number of current employees, capital and infrastructure investments, as well as the work of each department and organizational unit of the Court are also part of this annual report.

In addition to presenting the one-year work of each department and organizational unit, the report seeks to provide a comprehensive overview of the processing of the Court cases and decision-making.

When it comes to the decisions taken and the important referrals that were reviewed, the Court published a total of 184 decisions on its website last year, 16 of which were judgments.

Of all the referrals filed in which the Court found a violation of the right to fair and impartial trial, I wish to emphasize the following referrals:

In Referral KI10/18, filed by Mr. Fahri Deqani, who requested the constitutional review of Judgment Pml. No. 357/2017, of the Supreme Court of the Republic of Kosovo, of 22 December 2017, the Court held that in the Applicant's case, the regular courts did not justify the extension of the detention on remand against the Applicant and consequently the Court found a violation of Article 29, paragraph 1, item (2) of the Constitution.

Another important referral was also Referral KI87/18, filed by "IF Skadeforsikring", which requested the constitutional review of Judgment E. Rev. No. 27/2017 of the Supreme Court of the Republic of Kosovo of 24 January 2018. In this case, the Court found that the Supreme Court did not justify the change of its practice with regard to the assignment of the penalty interest, which had resulted in a breach of the principle of the consistency of the case law and legal certainty, to the detriment of the Applicant. The Court found a violation of the Applicant's right to fair and impartial trial.

Another important case was the Referral No. KI48/18, filed by Arban Abrashi and the Democratic League of Kosovo, who challenged two decisions of the Supreme Court of the Republic of Kosovo regarding the right to judicial protection of rights and electoral rights as well as participation guaranteed by Articles 54 and 45 of the Constitution. The Court held that the challenged decisions of the Supreme Court did not infringe the Applicants' rights and that they were rendered in accordance with Articles 54 and 45 of the Constitution.

In relation to the referrals submitted by the institutions authorized under Article 113 of the Constitution, the Court in 2019 also considered the case KO43/19, submitted by thirty two (32) deputies of the Assembly of the Republic of Kosovo, who requested the constitutional review of the Law No. 06/L-145 on the Duties, Responsibilities and Competences of the State

Delegation of the Republic of Kosovo in the Dialogue Process with Serbia. The Court declared the challenged law incompatible with the Constitution in entirety, as the substantive articles of the said law were in violation of Articles 4, 7, 65, 93 and 94 of the Constitution.

Last year, in addition to decision-making and reviewing cases, the Constitutional Court also conducted many other activities that took place in the form of official visits in the country and abroad, as well as participation in international conferences and professional trainings.

On 23 October 2019, the Court celebrated the 10th anniversary of its founding with a solemn ceremony in which, together with the institutional and international representatives in the country, the delegation of the highest level of the European Constitutional Courts and of the Venice Commission participated.

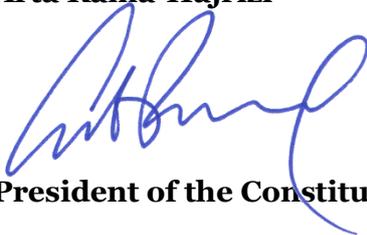

With the support of the Council of Europe Office in Prishtina and the Norwegian Embassy in Kosovo, last year the Constitutional Court also launched the project aimed at enhancing the professional capacities of the Court, with the aim of more effective implementation of the European standards in dealing with individual complaints and communication with the public.

For further details regarding the other activities and visits the Court conducted in 2019, you may refer to the content of this annual report.

In the end, I wish to thank all the judges and officials of the Constitutional Court for their commitment to the realization and successful accomplishment of the annual working plan.

I would also like to express special thanks to all the international partners and donors of the Constitutional Court, and in particular to: Council of Europe Office in Prishtina, United States Agency for International Development (USAID), German Agency for International Development (Germany) GIZ) and the German Foundation for International Legal Cooperation (IRZ).

LEGAL UNIT
(LU)

LEGAL UNIT (LU)

The Constitutional Court of the Republic of Kosovo, based on the Law on the Constitutional Court and the Rules of Procedure of the Constitutional Court, has established the Legal Unit as a separate organizational structure that directly reports to the President and performs its duties in support of the professional work of judges.

The primary role of the Legal Unit is to provide professional support to the judges of the Court in the process of drafting preliminary reports; final decisions of the Court; as well as all other legal material necessary for the work of the Court. In this regard, the Legal Unit is responsible for assisting the Court in ensuring a high quality of decision-making and consistency of the case law. For such purposes, the Legal Unit conducts exhaustive legal research at the level of national law of the Republic of Kosovo; regional and international constitutional law; international and comparative law; opinions, recommendations and best practices announced under the auspices of the Council of Europe and the Venice Commission; the case law of the European Court of Human Rights and the European Court of Justice; and, where appropriate, other international courts.

Other important functions of the Legal Unit are: (i) meeting with the parties and assisting the Secretariat in receiving referrals and additional documents; (ii) filtering all new referrals filed with the Court and drafting an initial filtering report regarding the submitted referral; (iii) identifying the referrals with interim measure and other urgencies that a referral may present depending on the nature of the case; (iv) maintaining and updating databases such as: the database of the type of referrals and raised allegations; database for the implementation of Court decisions; and database to monitor the status of each case from the beginning until its publication. All decisions of the Court are filtered by the Legal Unit prior to publication on the website of the Court in order to provide easier scientific, professional and academic search for all citizens of the Republic of Kosovo and the legal community.

The Legal Unit is composed of: Chief Constitutional Legal Advisor; Juristconsult; Deputy Chief Constitutional Legal Advisors; Senior Constitutional Legal Advisors; Constitutional Legal Advisors; Senior Legal Advisor for Administration of Referrals; and Constitutional Legal Secretaries. Currently, the Legal Unit is composed of 14 members and is managed by the Chief Constitutional Legal Advisor and her two Deputy Chief Constitutional Legal Advisors. All three, including Juristconsult, are elected by the judges of the Court from among senior constitutional legal advisors. The Chief Constitutional Legal Advisor acts in a liaison capacity between the President of the Court and the Secretary-General and is responsible for the smooth operation of the Legal Unit. She assists and advises the Court in the performance of its functions and supervises and supports all members of the Legal Unit in performing their duties. The position of Juristconsult is a new role in the Legal Unit created in 2019. His main role is to advise the Court and to notify it about various matters related to the Court's own case law, with a view to ensuring the consistency of case law. In coordination with Chief Constitutional Legal Advisor, Juristconsult assists in monitoring the content of all draft decisions of the Court (Judgments, Resolutions and Decisions) in order to ensure the high quality of decision-making and the consistency of case law; and, in this respect, proposes relevant recommendations aimed at the consistency and quality of the Court's decision-making.

The members of the Legal Unit have specific roles designed for the needs of the Court. They have the status of full-time employees and are not civil servants. Specific working conditions and precise descriptions of their duties are established in the Law on the Court, the Rules of Procedure and the Regulation on the Legal Unit. In terms of the advice they provide, they are independent and free to express their professional opinion on any referral in which they work.

The Legal Unit holds regular meetings to discuss various legal and constitutional issues, to monitor the status of cases, to review the possibility of the internal acts of the Court and to hold consultations on the Court's own case law and of the ECtHR. The Legal Unit also prepares various materials for discussion during professional sessions held with judges and advisors of the Court.

An important factor in ensuring effective legal decision-making and improving the drafting of reports and decisions is the professional training of Court's staff in the field of constitutional, international and human rights law. In the framework of the activities of the Court, the members of the Legal Unit participate in professional workshops throughout the year. A full list of activities of legal advisors can be found in Section IX of this report (Court Activities).

The Legal Unit continues to be committed to enhancing its professionalism, through the implementation of various projects, provided and enabled by the strategic partners of the Constitutional Court. Consistently and throughout the year, the Constitutional Court is open to offer meetings with students or the primary and secondary school pupils with an aim of notifying all concerned about the work of the Constitutional Court, its role defined by the Constitution, and the Referrals filed with it.
